DIAGNOSIS: Chr. ethmoidal sinusitis, bilateral.
Slight left maxillary sinusitis.

There appears to be considerable improvement since I last saw him last Mar. especially in the antrum. There is still a considerable amount of bilateral ethmoiditis which is probably responsible for his headaches.
He has had a considerable amount of short wave treatment.
Do not believe that X-Ray therapy would be very valuable.
Perhaps displacement treatment 2 to 3 times weekly would probably give considerable relief. Forthat he would have to be admitted to St.Anne's Hospital.
