Q. Were you requested to repeat these instructions.

On the second halt they shouted "Its alright, chum" I walked about ten yards up the line and turning around saw the four soldiers attempting to take Government property away, so I challenged them three times and received no answer. I then fired, according to my orders. I then sent the other sentry to the Sgt. in charge of the Guard, who came down and arrested the remaining three soldiers.

THIRD WITNESS, Sgt Dijs, (Contd)

A. Several nights previous to the 16th instant I have had continued reports from Nos 1 and 2 Sentries concerning material being moved during the time of patrolling this beat. This usually happened between 6 P.M. and 9 P.M. and 9 P.M. to midnight. I myself have watched the place where figures have been seen several nights till after midnight and had only just left the spot when, what turns out to be this soldier and three others appeared out of some adjoining gardens to try to remove a large piece of canvas. On the nights of December 14th and 15th Nos 1 and 2 reliefs both reported that they had challenged someone who disappeared and was not seen again. On the night of the 16th the sentry on No.1. beat reported at 8.15 p.m. that four people were coming towards the siding, but on seeing two sentries they went away again. I examined the siding again and found that a large roll of canvas had been moved and dragged up a bank and placed on rollers ready to be moved quickly, so I drew the attention of the next relief to this, also placing extra guards. On about 9.45 P.M. I heard two shots and had a report that someone was whot, so I went at once to the spot but could not find any trace of anyone. I examined the sentries and found two shots missing, one from each rifle. N^o 14793, Pte Jones reported that he heard someone approaching the siding as he was standing in between the waggons. On going out from the waggons he saw four figures against a piece of canvas. He challenged them three times. Two ran away but the others took no notice and stooped down against the roll of canvas, ~~XXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX~~ ~~XXXXXX~~ when he fired. Both got away, but I found the wounded man in an adjoining house but he died shortly afterwards. N^o 65188 Pte Smith, N.2 Sentry, reported that he fired the second shot into the bank to frighten them. The following morning, Dec. 17th I assisted Lt. Garbitt in arresting the remainder of these troops, as they had already made it public news that they were deserters from the 87th Canadian Infantry Battalion.

Q. Who reported to you that Pte Aubut had been shot?

A. Pte Beliveau came to the Café. I then ran over with civilians to get him.

About ten minutes later we carried him to a civilian house. Then an Officer with a Stretcher Bearer came to dress his wounds. They carried him back to the Station. We then went back to our billet.

SIXTH WITNESS

Dr. A. Marcq, Courcelles-Motte, (Documentary, translated) states;

At about 10 p.m. Dec. 16th., 1918, a civilian lady in company with a British soldier came to me and begged me to go to the Rue de Gracerie to dress the wounds of a wounded soldier. When I arrived there he had been taken to the Station. In the vicinity of the station I found a soldier lying on a stretcher, pale faced and covered with perspiration, moaning low. The beat of the pulse was hardly perceptible. Lifting the covering which was around him, I saw under his sweater the intestines coming from his abdomen through an irregular orifice of a diameter of 5 centimetres under the left rib at the ~~right~~ junction of the breast line and the navel. The ~~abdomen~~ intestine was perforated in several places as well as the stomach and decomposed food was coming from the opening.

The opening at point of entry was very small and regular, situated a few fingers width above the right posterior about 10 centimetres from the spinal column.

The passage of the projectile had an oblique direction from low to high, right to left and ~~front~~ back to front.

I may say that I think that the wound was caused from a shot from a service weapon of small calibre.

The wounded man died in my presence at about 11.00 hours, Dec. 16th. 1918.
