VI. Other Personal History and Appraisal

He is not interested in sports. He does not care for shows and does not dance. He says he spent most of his leisure time drinking in clubs. He admits being a heavy drinker.

He was married recently to a Montreal girl. A child was born three months after the marriage. His parents live in Montreal. His father is an invalid; his right side has been paralyzed for the past five years; he formerly owned a small coal yard. Daoust has four brothers and two sisters. He was employed as a towmotor operator for two months prior to his A.W.L. and he worked as a bus driver for Montreal Tramways for four years.

DATE	CLINICAL NOTES
	March 7/44: X/RAY CHEST 14 x 17 5805 Sincle frontal projection of the thorax demonstrates some accentuation of the broncho-vascular pattern to both inferior lobes. Some minimal peritruncal changes are present on either side. Both diaphragms are elevated and patient apparently did not take a full inspiration at the time of exposure of the film. This may possibly be due to the pleuritic pain in the left chestof which he is complaining. There is no gross pleural reaction on either side at the present time although there is some faint haziness of the left lower lung-field as compared with the right. Heart and aorta are not grossly abnormal. IMPRESSION: Minimal peribronchial infiltration both inferior lobes. Question of minimal pleuritis, left lower hemithorax. E.W. Harding, M.D.
	March 9/44: CHEST 14 x 17 5988 8 x 10 Single frontal projection of the thorax demonstrates a persistent elevation of the left diaphragm. This was seen to move fairly well at the time of fluoroscopy, however, though possible slightly less than its follow on the right side. There was no apparent cardiovascular abnormality either at fluoroscopy nor on the present film study. IMPRESSION: There is persistent elevation of the left diaphragm but no gross pleural reaction is evident in the left hemithorax. E.W. Harding, M.D.
	Mar.16/44: CHEST 14 x 17 7123 Fluroscopy and film study of the chest demonstrate a persistent elevation of the left diaphragm, which is relatively immobile. Some slight movement occurs when patient sniffs. The broncho-vascular pattern shows some slight degree of accentuation to both inferior lobes. There is however, no gross pneumonic infiltration nor is there any appreciable degree of pleural reaction in either hemithorax. IMPRESSION: Elevated and relatively immobile left diaphragm.

DATE	CLINICAL NOTES

Mar.23/44: X/RAY CHEST 14 x 17 7328
Single frontal projection of the thorax demonstrates approximately the same degree of elevation of the left diaphragm as was seen at the last examination on the 16th of March/44. Accentuation of the broncho-vascular pattern both inferior lobes, as before.
IMPRESSION: The left diaphragm remains elevated.

E.W. HARDING M.D.

Mar.23/44: Tuberculosis test is negative.

M.G. Hill, Capt.

Mar.29/44: INTRAVENOUS PYELOGRAM: 14 x 17 7538
The kidneys are normal in size and position and a normal appearance time of the dye occurred on either side.. The kidney pelves showed no evidence of dilatation nor was there deformity of the calyces. The ureters pursued a normal course and there was no evidence of obstruction. The urinary bladder was not deformed.
IMPRESSION: Normal K.U.B. tract. Calcarious adenopathy, right lower abdomen.

E.W. Harding, M.D.

Apr.4/44: URINALYSIS - Micro (cent) Gran.few. Leuc.few.

T.R. Waugh, M.D.

Apr.4/44: CHEST 2-14 x 17 7783
Single frontal and lateral projections of the thorax demonstrate a persistent elevation of the left diaphragm of approximately the same degree as was seen at the previous examination. There is at the present time, in addition, a widening of the central mediastinum; and in the lateral projection a retrosternal shadow, lying behind and extending the whole length of the gladiolus is seen. In view of the sudden collapse of the patient a few hours after the making of these films, I believe that the above findings are strongly suggestive of mediastinal abscess, involving the anterior mediastinum. Patient did not take quite as full an inspiration as at the previous examination which possible accounts for some broadening of the mediastinum but nevertheless I believe there is absolute widening of the mediastinal shadow. The accentuation of the broncho-vascular pattern to the inferior lobes appears somewhat greater than at the previous examination. There is some shift of the heart to the right.
IMPRESSION: This examination indicates a mediastinal abscess involving the anterior mediastinum directly behind the gladiolus.

E.W. Harding, M.D.

Apr.4/44: Persistent fever, loss of weight and night sweats. Suggest there may be an acid fast etiology for this man's persistent diaphragmatic pleurisy. The radiological finding of calcareous glands in the abdomen supports this viewpoint. Tuberculosis tests are to be repeated..

M. Aronovitch, Major.

Apr.4/44: About 1600 hrs. today patient began to feel much worse than he he had since admission to hospital. He complained of retrosternal pain and his pulse was rapid (about 100/min) and thready. About 1830 hrs. he still complained of the same symtpoms. By this time breathing was rapid and shallow. Pulse was still rapid. Heart sounds were distant but regular. Lungs seemed clear. He was moved to side room and O2 tent put in readiness. Symptoms continued and cynosis became evident. O_2 started about 2046 hrs. - to be given continously. Some improvement occurred under the O_2 tent.

DIAGNOSIS WERE:

1. acute coronary occlusion.
2. pulmonary embolism.
3. spontaneous pheumothorax.
4. Blaphragostic pleurisy had extended to mediastinum and there was

	The 1st and 4th possibilities seemed the most likely. On this assumption he was treated as a possible coronary occlusion but was also given sulfamides.
	M. Aronvitch, Major.
	Apr.5/44: I was asked to see Pte, Daoust by Maj.Aronovitch around 12 hrs. My first sight of this patient was in the medical ward. He was in an oxygen tent cyanosed pulses, cold - weak gasping respirations. Maj. Aronovitch aspirated in the 4th left interspace beneath the sternum and obtained thin watery green pus. The man was immediately taken to the operating room in his bed with an O2 made in situ. Under local anaesthesia the 5th left costal cartilage was inspected and the internal mammary (?) artery left tied and cut. The left pleura was pushed interally and the .....thoracic .....raised a moderate quantity of greenish thin pus escaped which on one occasion gave of an odor of B. coli. Within a few minutes the pulse was palpable. The respiratory rate decreased and the blood pressure reached a systolic of 90. There has been gradual improvement.

	10.00 P.M Respirators quiet. Color good - pulse full and regular. B.P.106 systolic. Circulation in hand and legs is good. Prior to operation legs were blue to knees and as were hands and part of forearm. Sweating properly receiving serum intravenously.

	Apr.5/44: .....taken this morning showed marked elevations of S-T segments in leads I, II, & IV. These might be due to coronary occlusion but size due to pressure on the heart. X-ray (lateral/ showed a suspicious shadow behind sternum. A needle was inserted in the 4th interspace on the left side and manouvered aching the sternum. About 50 cc. of this green pus were aspirated. Patients colour and breathing improved almost immediately. DIAGNOSIS: Mediastinitis, Retrosternal abscess. Operation to be done under local anaesthesia.
	M. Aronovitch, Major.
	Apr.6/44: After operation yesterday patient improved. Felt well and breathing easily this morning. About 1000 hrs, began to have thready pulse and difficulty with respiration again. Cardiac tanpounds was suspected. Dressing changed at 1400 hours showed no block in drainage except that heart seemed freshed up against operative incision. He continued to get worse in afternoon. Postable x-ray shoed huge heart shadows. Pericardon was then aspirated. 300 cc. of thick purulent evil smelling B. col. odour pus were removed from pericardial ....by aspiration. Small amount of air was injected and x-rays taken to show the pneumo-hydrofan pericardium. Left pleural effusion also showed up in x-ray up in x-ray and pulse. His colour improved and breathing were better after operation. He was then sent to Operating room for pericardiotomy.

CASE HISTORY SHEET (Continuation)

DATE	CLINICAL NOTES

Apr.6/44 Good condition this a.m. started to go into shock around noon. Same symptoms as on April 4 and 5. Maj. Aronovitch is of the opinion that the cause is that of heart tampounds. Dressing removed - drain twisted. Wound explored with gloved index finger. It was found that the heart had been pused forward to block the drainage but a No.14 frank catheter was placed in the mediastinal cavity and little pus obtained. Iam of the opinion that there is either a posterior mediastinal abscess pushing the heart foreward or acute supplnative pericarditis with effusion, the latter in the most likely possibility. To have x-ray of chest.

A. Vineberg, Maj.

Apr.6/44: 5.30 P.M. X-ray shown a tremendously dainted heart shadow. A needle inverted into the pericardium by Major Aronovitch and 300 cc. of purulent foul smelling anterial withdrawn and replaced by about 50 cc. of air. 10000units of pencillin injected into the pericardium, Marked improvement in respiration, Pulse aand Blood Pressure. X-ray of heart in upright position endured. X-ray of heart shows air in pericardium.

A. Vineberg, Major.

Apr.6/44: Taken to operating room. Blood transfusion commenced and 2 cc 10,000 units of pencillin given intravenously. Pericardium .....after resection of 6th costal cartelage. Large quantities of greyish green foul (B. Coli) smelling pus escaped about 400 cc. Rubber drain placed .....of pericardial one and another in mediastinum. Maj. Aronovitch then ....left thorax obtained about 30 cc of non-odorous greenish turbid fluid with a few ....from left thoracic pleural cavity and introduced 10,000 units pencillium into cavity left pleura.

A. Vinceberg, Major.

Apr.6/44: 1100 hours.
Patient much improved. Pulse 132 now full. Blood pressure now. 128/34
Respiration less labored.
Color good.

7..4.44	09 hours. Good color. B.P. 110/52. Pulse 88. Respirations show not laboured. Extremities are warm and good color. Much foul discharge from wound. I am unable to explain the sequence of events in this case. I do not accept the view that all can be accounted for by a diaphragmatic pleurisy and an accompanying mediastrial pleurisy. The foul character of the pericarditis and the absence of odor to the mediastinal and left pleural pus is difficult to explain. This could be one of two conditions. 1. A left sided liverabscess with subphrenic abscess. 2. A small hylar abscess with exterior into the pericardium. The absence of cough or sputum and negative lung-fields is against the latter and the absence of abdominal symptoms is against the former. It is hard, however, to over-look a persistently elevated diaphragm on the left side which has persisted for one month along with fever. Personally I favor the possible No. T. Compared with others re penacillin - Dosage, was advised to increase total dosage. Commenced 20,000 units every 2 hours. Total dosage 240,000 units for 24 hours. Condition unchanged. Major Vineberg.
7.4.44	Marked improvement after operation. Colour good(under O tent) and B.P. and pulse good though former somewhat high. 2 Major Vineberg.
8.4.44	Respirations had become laboured during the night. When seen at 0900 hours colour was good but there was marked respiration difficulty. Movement of the alae masse and heaving movement of chest. Patient irrational at times and womewhat drowsy but coope rates well-some sputum. Cardiovascular system holding up very well with good steady pulse and blood pressure. Breath sounds harsh with fine rales all ovet the right chest. Few rales left hilar region. X-ray shows marked density of right side. IMPRESSION: Pneumonia - This appears to be a massive pneumonia which has come on very rapidly while patient is under penicillin treatment Sulfadiazine therapy added to this. Also Ephedrine gr 55 q.4.h. for effect on respiration. Prognosis poor Major Vineberg.
8.4.44	0445 hours. Prespirations are rapid and labored. Color good - pulse rate rapid. Extremities are cold and show early cyanotic mottling as on two previous occasions. In view of the X-ray findings of April 6th, 1944, it seemed possible that the left pleural cavity was full of fluid causing pus are symptoms although there was no evidence of tomponode 110 cc. of turbid then colored pus was evaporated from the left thorax. No more was obtained. A flat chest plate taken after the aspiration showed extensive pneumonia of antril right lung. Possibility of collapse was considered. Examination of lungs showed harsh blowing entire right lung with mois t rales. Left lung; there were a few crepitant rales. Breath sounds normal and well heard. 1400 hours. Steadily becoming worse. Inserted needle into the left pleural space obtained a deep tap. Now cyanoid lips, fingers etc., Respiration laboured - pulse no good - wound draining freely. ATTENDED AUTOPSY: Pericardium welldrained. No fluid - much thickened and both heart and pericardium covered with thick greenish fibrinosis exudate.

	AUTOPSY COUNT There was an area of about 3" in diameter on anterior surface of the pericardium which was also free of fluid and was evidently the drained mediastinal abscess. The opening up of the pericardium was about ¼" long. This is of interest in so far as the original opening extended over the 6th and 4th costal cardilages and was at least 1½" long in the operation room. The right lung was solid evidently pneumonic. The left was adherent at its base to the dome of the diaphragm there was no fluid in the left pleural space. The left lobe of the liver was adherent to the undersurface of the diaphragm and just lateral to it between the peritoneum and the diaphragm there was a shaggy walled dirty colored abscess about 2" in diameter which was directly under the pericardial sac and that part of the diaphragm to which the left lower lobe was adherent.
	The stomach was adherent to the diaphragm in two places on the peritoneal side, but air opening showed no lesion.
	The caecum was adherent to the lateral peritereal wall the appendix lay on the anterior surface of the caecum and near its tip there was a large faciolith. The appendix was adherent to the caecum at this point as were two loops of small bowel. A small drop of greenish pus was found in separating the loop of bowl from the appendix. The peritorial cavity was clear.
	DISCHARGE NOTE: This man was admitted to Medicine March 1st, 1944 with pain in left shoulder and left costal margin. This was low grade type of fever. During his stay in medicine he was suspected of having left basal pleurisy. On April 4th, 1944 he suddenly went into shock and was thought to have had a coronary thrombosis. On April 5th, 1944 a diagnosis of anterior mediastinal abscess was established by the medical department. The patient was taken to the operation room in a moribund state and the mediastinal abscess drained with immediate improvement. On April 6th, 1944 pericarditis with effusion was diagnosed and the pericardium opened again with spectacular recovery.
	Pneumonia of the right lung developed and the man died April 8/44.
	DIAGNOSIS: 1. Left basal pleurisy. 2. Mediastinal abscess - anterior. 3. Perulent feted pericarditis. 4. Subphrenic abscess. 5. Faccolith of the appendix with periappendicular adhesions. 6. Pneumonia right lung.

DATE	CLINICAL NOTES
Apr.9/44	After autopsy the only thing I can add to Major Vineberg's note is the fact that there was a small collection of pus in an adhesion of stomach to underside of liver. This apparently had no immediate connection with any other collections of pus. Neither had the small band of pus in the region of the appendix. It is possible that these two small collections of pus were due to a terminal septi..... although there is no equal likelihood that the appendiceal condition was the starting point for the whole sequence of events by lymphatic extension to the subphrenic of one. In view of the lack of history of digestive symptoms it is impossible to say when this might have started. Since this was a partial autopsy only(thoracic incision only) the appendix was not seen in situation but brought up into the wound by blind blunt dissection. The possibility that there were other small collections of pus elsewhere can neither be proven of disproven. A. Aronovitch, Major

Appendix "A"

AUTOPSY NO. 78

Age:- 27

Post Mortem Examination of D'Aoust, J. Royal - D.166630, at Ste. Anne's Hospital, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, P.Q., April 8, 1944 at 11.00 p.m.
Permission limited to examination of the thorax with stipulation that no organ is to be removed.

General Examination:- The body is that of a well muscled, well nourished male aged approximately 29 years. There is as yet no rigor mortis. The pupils are equal in size and semi-dilated and there is no icterus, cyanosis or oedema. There is a recent transverse incision 10 cms. long and 4.5 cm.wide at the left border of the sternum and at the level of the 5th costal cartilage. Necrotic but not foul smelling gray tissue is seen between the wound edges. The skin of the wound edges is not red and inflamed. There is no palpable lymphadenopathy.

Thorax:- Portions of the left 5th and 6th costal cartilages have been removed. The tissue beneath the sternum and in the wound is gray and necrotic and contains a small quantity of thin gray pus with yellowish particles of tissue. It is not malodorous and does not extend beyond the right border of the sternum nor into the left pleural space. There is a small opening 0.5 cm in diameter into the underlying pericardium.

Pericardium:- The visceral and parietal layers are thickened to 2 - 3 mm and covered with shaggy yellowish gray fibrinous exudate. The surface of pus even in the farthest recess of the pericardial sac.

Heart- Weight 510 grams. The perimeters of the valve rings are as follows:-
tricuspid 14 ccm
pulmonary 8.5 cm
mitral 9.5 cm
aortic 7 cm
The valve cusps are all normal. The left ventricle measures 17 mm. in thickness and the right 3 mm. The myocardium of normal color and consistency. There is no atheroma in the ascending aorta or coronary arteries, and the mouths of the coronary arteries are normal.

22

Left Pleural space:- There is a small amount of fibrinous exudate in ~~thickne~~ the costophrenic angle and on the under-surface of the lower lobe. The upper half of the pleura is smooth and glistening.

Left Lung- Weight 700 gm. The posterior borders and lower lobe show a patchy consolidation and oedema. The bronchi and pulmonary vessels are normal and the hilar lymph nodes are not enlarged.

Right Pleural space:- The visceral and parietal ~~layers lobe~~ layers are smooth and glistening and there is no increase in fluid.

Right Lung:- Weight 1000gm. The posterior border and lower lobe shows a patchy consolidation and oedema more marked than on the left side. The bronchi and pulmonary vessels are normal and the hilar lumph nodes are not enlarged.

Abdomen:- Examination of the abdominal viscera was performed through the thoracic incision because of thelimited autopsy permission.
The visceral and parietal peritoneum are smooth and glistering with the following exception, and there is no increase in fluid.
The anterior wall of the caecum is firmly adherent to the antero-lateral abdominal wall. The appendix curves forward over the anterior wall of the caecum and lies between it and the anterior abdominal wall. An oval hard brown faecolith 1.5 cm in length and 0.6 cm in diameter lies on a fibrinous bed in the adhesions between caecum, appendix and anterior abdominal wall. There is a hole 0.5 cm in diameter in the wall of the appendix 2 cm. from its distal end. The appendix measures 8 cm. in length. The proximal 5 cm. are smooth and glistening and measure 0.6 cm. in diameter. The distal 2 cm. measure 1.1. cm in diameter and is covered with a smooth fibrinous exudate. A loop of ileum is adherent to this caecal mass. A bead of thick creamy pus exudes from the adhesions to the anterior caecal wall

Liver:- Weight 2800. There is a large abscess cavity with a capacity of approximately 300 c.c. between the left lobe of the liver and the fibrous portion of the diaphragm of immediately beneath the pericardium. The cavity contains non odorous thin brownish pus and fragments of yellowish gray necrotic tissue. The wall of the abscess cavity contains a layers of firm white fibrous tissue 1-2 mm in thickness. The left lobe of the liver immebeneath the abscess contains an increase in gray-white fibrous tissue containing yellowish streaks.

There is no cavity in the liver substance. There are moderately firm adhesion between the undersurface of this lobe and the anterior wall of the stomach. When these adhesions are broken, a bead of yello pus exudes. The surface of the right lobe is smooth and glistening. The cut surface shows only congestion.

Gall Bladder and Bile ducts:- appear normal.

Spleen: Weight 600 gm. The cot surface is extremely soft and red wipes away on the knife.

Adrenal and Kidneys: Were examined and sectioned in situ and no gross lesion was noted.

Gastro-Intestinal tract: Only the stomach, caecum and adherent loop of the ileum were thoroughly examined. No musosal lesion was noted. The anterior wall of the caecum beneath the adhesions is thickened and measures 6 mm in thickness. No gross intramural abscesses are noted.

Pancreas:- Appears grossly normal.

Urinary Bladder and Prostate: not examined.

Bacteriology: Facilities for bacteriology were limited. Direct smear of pus from pericardium showed disintegrating neutrophils, a rare small gram positive rod and gram positive coccus. Cultures showed a very light growth of corynebacteria (not a recognized pathogenic strain biochemically Direct smear of pus from subphrenic abscess showed disintegrating neutrophiles and rarely a gram positive coccus. Culture showed a very light growth of green streptococci.
Direct smear of pus from caecum showed numerous long slender gram positive threads with true branching, and occasional fusiform swelling on the threads. The hyphae are approximately 1 m in diameter. Rare pale staining Gram negative rods are seen. No cultures taken from this area.

Provisional Diagnosis-
1. Purulent Percarditis and pericardiotomy.
2. Left subphrenic abscess.
3. Abscess left lobt of liver.
4. Subsiding appendicitis.
5. Septic splenitis.
6. Left fibrinous pleuritis.
7. Right broncho pneumonia.

Intelligent man - heavy drinker - doesnot show any physical signs of nervousness. No tremors - P.R. is 72/per min. But his behaviour in the Army as well as in civilian life shows temperamental instability with hyopchondriasis features that should not interfere with his work in Canada.

Strong, likes the Army, but undisciplined and self assertive type of personality whose features are likely to improve in Canadian Category.

il est nécessaire que les renseignements voulus concernant le défunt et les membres de sa famille soient fournis à l'intérieur de cette formule, en stricte conformité des instructions imprimées. Les détails exigés doivent être inscrits comme il faut et la déclaration au verso doit être ensuite signée en présence d'un pasteur, prêtre, magistrat de la localité, commissaire ou notaire public, que l'on priera de compléter et signer le certificat. Cette formule doit être ensuite renvoyée à l'adresse mentionnée ci-dessus.

La succession militaire d'un défunt, dont l'administration incombe à la division des successions, comprend tout reliquat de solde et d'allocations au crédit du défunt, l'argent en main et les effets personnels qui sont sous le contrôle des autorités militaires. Pour entrer en possession de ces valeurs, il n'est pas nécessaire que les personnes qui y ont légalement droit fassent homologuer le testament en cour ou, si le défunt était intestat, qu'elles obtiennent des lettres d'administration de sa succession.

En plus de voir à l'administration de ces valeurs militaires, l'administrateur des successions est autorisé à retirer, au compte du gouvernement, tous les fonds (jusqu'à concurrence d'un montant défini) déposés au nom du défunt dans les banques, bureaux de poste ou autres institutions financières au Canada et outre-mer, sans frais ni dérangement pour les personnes ayant légalement droit à la succession, et de distribuer cet argent en même temps que tout reliquat de solde. De même, les certificats d'épargne de guerre et les bons de la victoire que possédait le défunt peuvent être rachetés et distribués de la même façon, ou transférés au nom des personnes qui y ont légalement droit. Ces certificats et bons ne doivent pas être envoyés à l'administrateur des successions avant qu'il les demande.

S'il y a d'autres valeurs nécessitant une demande d'homologation du testament ou de lettres d'administration, l'administrateur des successions pourra transférer et remettre les valeurs militaires à l'exécuteur ou à l'administrateur nommé par la Cour, afin que toute la succession, militaire et autre, soit traitée comme un tout.

Les renseignements que vous donnerez aux pages 2 et 3 de cette formule seront donc un facteur qui aidera à déterminer si toute la succession du défunt peut ou non être entièrement distribuée par l'administrateur des successions aux personnes qui y ont légalement droit, c'est-à-dire, sans qu'il soit nécessaire de faire homologuer le testament ou administrer la succession.

Si l'espace destiné aux questions des pages 2 et 3 de cette formule n'est pas suffisant pour donner tous les détails, il faudra alors se servir de l'espace réservé aux "observations supplémentaires", à la page 4.
